The Strangest, Wildest, and Most Luxurious Valentine's Day Hotel Packages

Think: skywriting, caviar, and Flo Rida.

HANNAH WALHOUT JANUARY 31, 2018

This time of year, hotels around the world get serious about going above and beyond for Valentine's Day, crafting spectacular (or spectacularly strange) packages that push the limits of luxury and, occasionally, common sense.

At Travel + Leisure, we love to sift through all the options — particularly the wild and over-the-top offers — to help you plan your most romantic getaway ever.

Some of these Valentine's Day hotel packages are decadent, others provocative, and all of them guaranteed to make you blush, at least a little. And isn't that Valentine's Day in a nutshell?

We love these 18 luxury properties — and their determination to help you celebrate love in your own, extravagant way.

The Darcy in Washington, D.C.

Travelers with particularly fancy taste can take advantage of the designated caviar and Champagne butler at Washington, D.C.'s The Darcy. The Valentine's Day treat includes in-room cart service curated by the property's Siren restaurant and a pairings expert. Taittinger Champagnes accompany several varieties of caviar and toppings. And the best part — you can eat it in bed. From $169.
